Science at Longman's Hill is well planned and well resourced to ensure a progression in learning which builds on children's knowledge, scientific skills and life experiences. Children, and the way in which children learn, is at the heart of science teaching and learning at Longman's. Children are inquisitive and are actively involved in their learning.

